

Dialogue:

Madison: Hi mom. I want to talk to you, because you work so long every day.

Mother: Hey darling. You know that I have to be on the news every day.

Madison: I know, but the viewers see you more often than I do. I am really disappointed about that we spend so little time together.

Mother: I understand you, but I cannot change my work like I can change the channel on TV. What do you think about this weekend?

Madison: What about it?

Mother: Well, I thought we could hang out at the shopping mall on Saturday and stay at home on Sunday.

Madison: Really? That is unbelievable! We could chill on Sunday and watch some crime series, comedies, or documentaries.

Mother: Sounds like a good plan! Let's have dinner now.

Madison: Yeah, I'm dead hungry!
